Thomas decision delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate agreed Tuesday to put off for one week a vote to confirm Clarence Thomas to the Supreme Court to give more time to study recent allegations of sexual harassment directed against him.

Thomas, through his chief sponsor, Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., asked that he be given time to "clear my name" before a final vote that appeared only days ago to be a sure thing for him.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole said there were some in his party that wanted to go ahead and vote Tuesday but he said that was "a gamble that should not be taken." He said he did not have the 50 votes now for confirmation but that ultimately he believed Thomas would be approved.

After a Dole move to schedule the vote for this Friday failed, the new vote was scheduled for Tuesday Oct. 15.

"This will be a test for Clarence Thomas," Dole said. "This is a test of his character. I believe he is up to it."

Property owners may violate towing regulations

By John C. Patterson
Investigation Coordinator

Some property owners in Carbondale may be violating state regulations by not following proper guidelines for posting signs notifying people that their vehicles could be towed.

The Illinois Vehicle Code lists requirements that must be met for towing companies to relocate vehicles, but some local property owners are not posting signs complying with the code.

In Carbondale, Lewis Park Apartments, Meadow Ridge and Campus Square apartments, Creekside Condominiums, the townhouse complexes located on College, Ash and Beveridge streets, along with several other rental and business properties, may be in violation of the state code.

Jeff Woodruff, owner of Woodruff Services, said although he is not an attorney, he believed signs at Woodruff properties met guidelines when they were installed.

The signs at Meadowridge Apartments were built about six years ago and also cover the Campus Square Apartments, Woodruff said.

Meadowridge signs include the hours when towing is in effect, and permit parking only is allowed during those hours.

Woodruff said he was not aware of any changes since the initial

Pentagon: Base loss no threat to defense

By Doug Toole
Politics Writer

Forty-nine years after Gen. Douglas MacArthur was forced out of the Philippines by the Japanese, the American military may again be leaving the island—this time at the request of the Filipino government.

The loss of the U.S. naval base in the Subic Bay would cause the Navy to relocate its training and repair facilities elsewhere in the South Pacific region, but would not greatly affect the U.S. military presence there, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Gregg Hartung said the Navy has 5,900 personnel in the Subic Bay base who repair ships and replace personnel and equipment on 130 to 150 ships annually. The ships include those in the U.S. Seventh Fleet, stationed in the western Pacific and Indian Ocean, and others traveling from the United States to the South Pacific.

The Filipino Senate voted Sept. 16 not to renew the U.S. Navy's lease on the Subic Bay base. The Senate has not decided when the U.S. military will have to withdraw completely from the base, but proposals from the Senate have ranged from one to seven years.

SIUC not to convince faculty to remain instead of retiring

By Christiann Baxter
Administration Writer

The early retirement incentive plan could mean the loss of experienced faculty for many SIUC departments, but University officials say they would not discourage their staff from taking advantage of it.

The plan would allow University employees to add five years to their age and service records, allowing them to retire early. The five years of credit are given for the cost of 2 1/2 years.

An early retirement plan could cost SIUC as much as $9 million.

The plan is intended to reduce financial strain on universities, said acting Vice President for Financial Affairs William Capie. The state's theory is that senior employees, who earn high wages, will retire. Younger people, who will earn smaller salaries, will take their place.

Harry Miller, vice president for Academic Affairs, said the University will have trouble finding people to replace those who have retired.

"In some cases, we'll see faculty retiring in key positions," he said. "These are difficult positions to recruit for. The loss of talent and expertise will be noticed very quickly."

Thomas Gutteridge, dean of the College of Business and Administration, said the plan could mean losing committee chairs, qualified teachers and excellent researchers.

"It could result in significant short-run loss in the leadership base," he

Lower Arena seat prices increase

By Todd Eschman

Fans may have to pay a little more to watch Saluki basketball at the Arena this year.

Ticket prices have increased for the first time since 1988 in some sections. Season tickets for lower level end sections A, K, L and U cost $106—$31 more than the previous two seasons. Single game tickets for those sections will increase to $8, and all other seats will cost the same.

Student tickets cheaper than at other schools

SIUC Athletic Director Jim Hart says the change was made to make all lower level chair sections the same price.

"We feel that those seats deserve to be the same price as the others because of their close proximity to the playing floor," Hart said.

Hart said University budget cuts make it necessary for the athletic department to raise some funds on its own. He said increasing ticket prices is a fair way to bring money into the department.

"The state's economy is in a bind," Hart said. "The Athletic Department has to do its part. We expect to have to give thousands of dollars back to the University. This is a good way to increase funding. But we have a good product that is marketable. We couldn't raise ticket prices if it wasn't. I think it's still a bargain."

The price increase won't affect SIUC students. Students still will be admitted for $2 if they present a valid student I.D.

SIUC students get a big break on ticket prices compared to other universities in the state.

Students at the University of Illinois pay $71.50 for a season pass to see the Illini compete in the Big 10 Conference. Students at conference foe Illinois State University can pay $24 for a season basketball ticket or $34 for a four-sport pass.

But student Dawg fans can purchase the Saluki Athletic Pass for $20. That price includes admission to all SIUC sporting events. Saluki Pass carriers also get

Super seniors seed to Saluki spikers' success

Firnhaber sets example, sets up balls for spikes in silent leadership role

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

Some athletes accumulate statistics to stand in the spotlight, but many strong performances never show up on paper.

Behind-the-scene athletes are the backbones of teams, and volleyball Saluki Martha Firnhaber is one of them.

Firnhaber, a senior setter from Shelbyville, was labeled the quarterback of the team by head coach Sonya Locke.

"Martha has good leadership abilities, which she has to have in order to play the role of setter," Locke said. "She keeps the title of the quarterback because she runs the team by touching every second ball."

Touching every second ball has brought Firnhaber to lead the Salukis with 838 assists this season.

Firnhaber ranks No. 3 on SIUC's all-time list for assists. She needs 141 more to overtake the No. 2 position, which is held by Sue Sinclair.

She is second on the team with 41 blocks and third with 20 service aces and 145 digs.

Firnhaber said she transferred from the University of Illinois after her freshman year to get more playing time.

After playing as a defensive specialist for more than two years, Firnhaber was thrust into the starting setter position in 1990.

Even though it is not her usual position, she said she feels comfortable playing it.

"I talk through plays a lot," Firnhaber said. "I try to motivate the team. I think I make a good setter because I am competitive—very competitive."

Along with leading the Salukis in assists, Firnhaber ranks No. 19 nationally with 11.48 a game.

In the Arkansas State Invitational last weekend Firnhaber finished with a season-high 64 assists for the tourney. Her career high is 66, which she scored in a 1990 match against Indiana University.

Outside hitter Simpson snares Gateway award for second time in 1991

By Cyndi Oberle
Sports Writer

For the second time this season senior outside hitter Lori Simpson was named Gateway Conference Volleyball Player of the Week.

After leading the spikers to a third place finish in the Arkansas State Invitational last weekend, where she was selected to the all-tournament team, the conference announced Tuesday Simpson won the award.

Simpson said she didn't expect to receive the honor twice in one season.

Junior middle blocker Dana Olden also has been named player of the week twice.

Olden was selected last week, and this is the second time SIUC spikers have been awarded the honor in consecutive weeks.

Receiving these honors says a lot for the strength of the team, Simpson said.

"Dana has been nominated twice and so have I," Simpson said.

"We couldn't have won the award without the team behind us. We are playing well together and having a good season. If they could give a Gateway team award, it would be given to SIUC."

Head coach Sonya Locke said Simpson is only one part of a strong team.

"We are a balanced team," Locke said. "Lori is very important to our team, but every player contributes to our success. No one or two players can carry us through, and that is the sign of a real team."

In three matches, Simpson tallied 57 kills, had a .421 hitting percentage, 43 digs, six blocks and two service aces.

Against the University of Tennessee in the final game Simpson had a game-high 28 kills and a .490 hitting percentage.

Simpson said she thinks she was named Player of the Week because she broke her previous kill record.

"My record was 24, and I got 28 against Tennessee," Simpson said. "That was the major factor."

Coach: Youth makes difference in lady runners' Gateway battle

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC women's cross country team hopes to turn the tables on Gateway Conference foes by redefining "sophomore jinx," Saluki coach Don DeNoon said.

"We've had talented athletes in the past," he said. "But we've never had the depth we have now. We knew at the start of the season that we had a good team but our young runners have met and surpassed the goals we set early in the season."

of Sparta, and identical twins Karen and Karri Gardner of Knoxville have rounded out SIUC's top five and provided the chemistry to propel the Salukis to the front of the Gateway Conference race.

Junior runner Leann Conway said the young runners are central to the Salukis' success.

"Karen is a great athlete. She and Karri compliment each other and push each other to improve. Cathy is the most enthusiastic person on the team and she's the hardest worker."

Kershaw, who earned the attention of DeNoon by dominating local road races last fall, has leaped to the front of the SIUC pack in her first season holding down the team's fourth place position and

Repeat of spring expected after strong fall softball play

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

Although the competition was not as competitive as the coaches and team had hoped, the SIUC softball team learned a lot during the fall exhibition season, coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

The SIUC softball team finished the fall season with a 11-2 record. Brechtelsbauer said all the players have made progress and become more aggressive at the plate. All the starters had batting averages greater than .300 during the fall.

"Everyone in the lineup is expected to know how to bunt and get a hit," she said. "One of the strengths last year was that we had a balanced lineup, and we made things happen up and down. This year I think all of our players are top batters."

In 1991 the Salukis had a 42-7 spring record. Brechtelsbauer

SHEVARDNADZE PROMOTES INVESTMENT

FORN — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, appealed to American investors Tuesday to help the Soviet Union avoid economic catastrophe, unrest and the possible return of a right-wing dictatorship. Shevardnadze said while the coup was defeated and democratic groups are gaining strength, hard-line remnants of the Communist Party are playing on popular dissatisfaction and may attempt to seize power again.

YUGOSLAVIAN TALKS RESUME

FEDERAL AND Croatian representatives worked against the clock Tuesday to extend a 24-hour ceasefire set to expire at midnight. The talks between Federal Gen. Andrea Raseta and Deputy Croatian Defense Minister Colonel Imro Agrucic resumed at 4 p.m. after a two-hour break during which both sides consulted their superiors. "It was a productive meeting," Simon said.

BAKER PEACE MISSION CONTINUES

SECRETARY OF State James Baker will fly to the Middle East this weekend to arrange a peace conference between Israel and its Arab neighbors, the administration announced Tuesday. State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said Baker will leave Washington Saturday night for meetings in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria. He also will confer with Palestinian representatives from the Israeli-occupied territories, she said.

ANC BLAMES GOVERNMENT FOR DEATHS

THE African National Congress Tuesday blamed police and the government for at least 18 deaths in a Johannesburg township and said police shot to death at least three of the victims. But ANC spokesmen denied allegations that as many as 1,000 ANC supporters went armed through the township at the time of the incident. The group also said carrying weapons at the funeral would not violate an agreement aimed at stopping black factional violence.

HAITI GETS NEW PRESIDENT

A new Haitian president was sworn in Tuesday by military commanders, but the Organization of American States and U.S. officials said they considered the move unconstitutional and would refuse to recognize a new government. OAS ministers, meeting in Washington, were considering sending a peacekeeping force to restore the democratically elected president, Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

MALE DRUG USE LINKED TO BIRTH DEFECTS

COCAINE binds to sperm, raising a strong possibility that a father's cocaine abuse before conception causes birth defects, researchers reported Tuesday. Scientists exposed sperm specimens to cocaine doses comparable to doses used by cocaine addicts. They found the drug attached to the sperm and in doing so, caused no apparent damage to the sperm's ability to function.

WITNESS SAYS DRUG LORD PAID NORIEGA

DRUG lord Gustavo Gaviria gave Manuel Noriega a briefcase containing $500,000 at a 1983 meeting with the directors of Colombia's Medellin cocaine cartel, a drug dealer testified Tuesday at Noriega's cocaine-racketeering trial. Earlier, the defense asked for a mistrial, accusing the government of introducing testimony that was meant only to sully Noriega's character in front of the jury.

Busch sells responsibility to students

By Sarah Anderson
General Assignment Writer

Anheuser-Busch is supporting responsible attitudes toward drinking in a nationwide advertising campaign for college students to accompany National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, but some experts say the campaign will not work.

The campaign, based mostly on poster advertising, is promoting programs to keep students safe including the "Alert Cab" program and the "Buddy System," designed to stop students from drinking and driving.

With slogans like "This week, everybody on campus will be talking about drinking," Anheuser-Busch officials hope to encourage students to participate in National Collegiate Awareness Week.

"We are involved in these promotions to promote responsibility and to remind people of one of life's most basic responsibilities—responsibility," said Francine Katz, director of consumer awareness and education for Anheuser-Busch.

But Alvin Humphrey, clinical director of the Family Care Center in Chester, said advertisements promoting people to drink responsibly do not fool anyone.

"I think it's a scam. I don't believe them for a minute."

"I don't think anyone who drinks responsibly gets the message from TV ads," he said.

Tour brings the noise but not crowd

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

Only 1,700 fans attended the Public Enemy/Anthrax concert Monday night at SIUC, a crowd Arena officials say was disappointing.

The number of tickets sold was much lower than the 5,000 tickets that were printed.

"I had every indication that this was the kind of show that SIUC students would support," said Arena Director Gary Drake. "I thought we could sell 2,500 to 3,000 tickets. This show was a risk."

The fact that the concert was on a Monday may have played a part in the low attendance, Drake said.

Another reason could be that the bands just do not have enough fans in this area, Drake said.

Drake pointed to other package tours like the Lollapalooza Festival this summer, which featured seven alternative bands. He said the package tour is a good idea because combining bands also increases the amount of people who will want to go see it.

"Obviously, it didn't work in Carbondale," Drake said.

Drake said the Arena is within $50 of breaking even on the show.

Ursula Smith, representing Set to Run, Public Enemy's management agency, said the low sales figures came as a surprise to her because the band has sold out other concert halls.

She said the Bring the Noise tour has filled arenas with capacities of 5,000 or more in Troy, N.Y., Washington, D.C., Pittsburgh and Bethlehem, Pa. and other East Coast cities.

Smith faulted the Arena's promotional push for the low sales.

"That's just promotion," she said. "Or maybe there's a problem with the venue itself."

Drake said there are problems with arena-tour economics on a national level. Stardate Productions, a major booking agency for Chicago-area concerts, went bankrupt in September.

"This is a difficult time for the touring industry," Drake said.

Great White and Kenny Rogers both cancelled shows for lack of ticket sales last year at the Arena.

"In both instances, ticket sales were not good," he said. "In both instances, the bands asked us if they could reimburse us 100 percent of ticket sales up to that point."

"When you book a show, it's a crapshoot," Drake said, "because we don't get state funds or student fees."

Security was not a problem during the show, said Sgt. Jerry Brown of the SIUC Police.

"There were no problems at all," Brown said. "It was a good crowd. The people seemed to enjoy it."

University Police were employed to provide backup for Arena security. No arrests were made, and the only incident the police had to deal with was the occasional theft of tickets.

ROTC should reject policy of prejudice

UNFORTUNATELY, IT IS not always correct politically to be politically correct—at least for members of the General Assembly who plan to overturn the governor's veto of the popular Senate Bill 644, despite discriminatory implications of the bill.

Gov. Jim Edgar vetoed the bill that would prohibit governing boards of public colleges and universities from barring U.S. military training programs on campus.

The bill was drawn up in response to Northern Illinois University's intention to remove the ROTC program from its campus if the Department of Defense did not alter its policy on allowing gays and lesbians to join the military.

EDGAR SAID THE BILL would intrude "into the abilities of higher-education governing bodies to regulate extracurricular student activities," limiting them in a "piecemeal" manner.

The bill would have forced universities to allow campus military organizations to violate human rights and institutionalize a policy of discriminating against gays and lesbians—a policy inconsistent with anti-discrimination codes at many universities.

Although the veto does not expressly support the civil rights of gays and lesbians, in effect it supports university efforts to prevent the infringement of such rights—rights that should be protected for everyone.

GROUPS AFFILIATED WITH a university must abide by campus policies consistently applied to the university community.

A university has the right to bar an extracurricular activity on the basis that the activity discriminates against anyone—black or white, rich or poor, male or female, gay or straight. And universities should be able to exercise that right.

Supporters of the bill in the Illinois Senate say they want to protect the opportunity for students to participate in ROTC programs while obtaining an education. Never mind protecting civil rights for students.

Supporters say student participation in ROTC has played an important role in the leadership of military forces but do not consider the unjust and close-minded contributions of the military organization to human rights violations.

SUPPORTERS OF THE bill also say elimination of the program would take away from defense of the country. Obviously they are not concerned about taking away from equal opportunity.

The right of university policy-making bodies to enforce anti-discrimination codes was justly upheld, for whatever reason, by Gov. Edgar.

The Illinois Legislature should not overturn the governor's veto—the Department of Defense should overturn an unacceptable policy of prejudice.

Judge seems to speak in tongues when answering questions

"JUDGE THOMAS, a former assistant has said that you subjected her to sexual harassment. Would you please respond to these allegations."

"Senator. I recall my grandfather once saying to me, 'Clarence,' — you see he always called me Clarence, since that was my name — he said, 'Clarence, why did you pull that girl's pigtail?'"

"Excuse me, Judge, but I'm not sure I understand what you're talking about."

"I was talking about my grandfather, a poor but proud man, of little formal education but great wisdom and insight into the human condition."

"Yes, we are aware of that, Judge Thomas, and we have all repeatedly expressed our deepest admiration for your grandfather, but we are asking about allegations of sexual harassment. This woman says that you made overtures to her and talked about dirty movies in graphic detail. I don't know what your grandfather has to do with that."

"SENATOR, my grandfather would have had nothing to do with something like that, and I regret that you would suggest that he might. He was a poor but upstanding man of the highest moral values."

"I'm sure he was, Judge Thomas, and I meant no offense, but I'm somewhat confused as to why you began talking to us about him and some girl's pigtail."

"Senator, as I said, a girl who lived nearby in our wretchedly impoverished community made allegations to her mother that I had pulled her pigtail. These allegations were relayed to my grandmother, a woman of great dignity, despite our lack of social standing and financial where-withal."

"And she in turn felt obligated to relate them to my grandfather, who confronted me with them, but not in an accusatory manner, since he believed, as do I, that everyone is innocent until proven guilty, even a young, poor minority lad, trying to pull himself up by the frayed straps of his boots, as I was in those early days of my legendary and inspirational life."

"Judge Thomas, we are simply trying to get a truthful answer from you."

"SENATOR, my grandfather often said that the truth is sometimes found at the far end of a long and difficult road, filled with bumpy potholes and ruts, as most of the unpaved roads in our poor and neglected community were, but that this long, lonesome road must be traveled before the spring rains turn it to mud and ruin the boots and the straps you are trying to pull yourself up with."

"Judge Thomas, I'm sure that every senator would, if he could, pave your grandfather's road. But could you return to the issue at hand, the allegations of sexual harassment?"

"Senator, that is what I was doing. After the girl told her mother, and her mother told my grandmother, who told my grandfather, who gravely but fairly confronted me with the accusation, I presented him with my explanation about the pulled pigtail."

"And what was your explanation, Judge Thomas?"

"I told him that while walking behind this girl, on that bumpy, dusty, rural road, I saw two bees settle on her pigtail, and I was alarmed because I feared that they might sting her, and because in our proud but poor and humble community we could not afford the luxury of allergy tests, there was no way of knowing whether she might suffer a severe reaction to their venom. And knowing that we were denied adequate medical facilities, I realized immediate action was necessary."

"AS MY GRANDFATHER always said, do good fast and do wrong last. So I ran up behind her and pulled her pigtail to dislodge the bees. And that is what I told my grandfather, who listened with the solemn judicial bearing that he was known for, despite his lack of formal education."

"I see. Actually, I don't see, Judge Thomas. What does this have to do with the allegations made by your former aide?"

"That is what I was getting to, Senator. After I told my story, my grandfather thought for a while, rubbed his chin, and finally said: 'Two bees or not two bees, that is the question.'"

"He said what?"

"Two bees or not two bees, that is the question."

"That's what I thought you said he said."

"Yes, and I was amazed that this simple man could unwittingly duplicate, except for the plural usage of 'bee,' the words of William Shakespeare, the greatest writer in the history of Western civilization, a culture, incidentally, to which I owe unswerving loyalty. Two bees or not two bees, I shall never forget those words. It was then that I realized that if my humble and unlettered grandfather could say something like that, there were no limits to what I might accomplish if I applied myself and was diligent in doing the homework assigned to me by the wonderful nuns."

"JUDGE THOMAS, that is a fascinating story, although I'm not sure I understand it, but could you possibly answer our questions?"

"Yes, Senator. My grandfather exonerated me of all charges. I shall never forget his words. He said: 'Hell, hath no fury like a filial whose pigtail was pulled.'"

"Judge Thomas, I give up."

"I thought you might."

installation, but said he is "anxious to obey the law."

However, no matter what the circumstances, towing is going to occur, he said.

"Towing is an unpleasant occurrence," Woodruff said.

It is done to maintain security and control who has access to the property, he said.

"Only trespassers are towed," he said. "They are towed only because they don't meet the rules of the complex."

Chris Rogers, manager of Lewis Park Apartments, said she had changed her signs recently and was unaware of any current violations.

The only major piece of information missing from parking signs at Lewis Park was the towing fees.

Rogers said she had checked with the towing companies and said she didn't know the charges had to be on the sign.

The signs at Lewis Park have been replaced within the last year to include the name and phone number of the towing company, she said.

Rogers said the additional information was added for convenience to vehicle owners and to meet the requirements.

"When we didn't have it on there, my emergency maintenance person was getting all kinds of calls," she said.

Although towing usually is enforced by a local ordinance, the state sets the minimum requirements, said Mike Murphy, spokesman for Secretary of State George Ryan.

"The regulations have to be met," Murphy said. "They serve as the base state law that is permissible."

County boards and local governments can strengthen the towing regulations, but Carbondale has not, said City Attorney Michael Wepsiec.

Wepsiec said the Illinois Vehicle Code applies to all parts of the state and Carbondale is no exception.

Larry Georgeff, owner of Larry's Towing, said his company does not do too much residential towing, but he said most of the properties he deals with meet the guidelines.

If a property owner does not have a sign, Georgeff said he will supply one of his own.

He said the signs are "pretty good sized," and include Larry's phone number and address in reflective letters.

SIUC students and local residents agree proper signs would have an effect on parking.

"People know these towing places mean business so they wouldn't park there," said Doug Still, 24-year-old senior in product design from Chicago.

Still said as a bare minimum the signs should have the name of who is going to be towing.

The first and only time he was towed, Still said he had no idea what had happened to his car and had to call around before he located the company.

"In my book, that's stealing," he said.

Scott Hilman, 20 from DeSoto, said it is hard to find a parking sign in Carbondale that meets all of the state requirements.

"In all the years I've lived here I've only seen one that's correct," Hilman said.

Hilman said the biggest problems he has with most signs is the absence of towing fee information and the name of the towing company.

"The first time my car was towed I thought it got stolen," he said.

Shane Beisner, 23-year-old Carbondale resident, said he thinks the signs should at least name who will be towing.

Although Beisner said legitimate signs would not always make a difference where someone would park, they would help ease the problem of finding a car once it comes up missing.

"The first time I had no idea," he said. "I started calling towing places and luckily Glenn's was the second one."

The vehicle code serves as the lowest form of regulation and includes the following provisions regarding towing:

■ Written notice is provided to the effect that vehicles will be removed.

■ The notice must include the name, address and telephone number of the appropriate commercial vehicle locator.

■ The notice will consist of a sign, posted in a conspicuous place in the affected area.

■ Such sign will be at least four feet from the ground but less than eight feet from the ground.

■ The sign must be either illuminated or painted with reflective paint, or both.

■ The sign will state the amount of towing charges.

According to the code book, if all of the requirements are not met, any towing is considered unlawful by state regulations.

Hartung said the Pentagon still has not received an official statement from the Filipino government that the base's facilities must move.

The Pentagon has no official comment on the situation at this time.

He said if the base does have to relocate, it probably will not be to a single area.

William Turley, political science professor, said now that southeast Asia is relatively stable, the U.S. military has less need to stay in the area as a peacekeeping force.

Turley said the gulf war showed that maintaining the Subic Bay facilities is not crucial because ships can stay out at sea longer and jets' flight capabilities have improved.

Although the Subic Bay is a large natural bay, its facilities can be spread throughout smaller bases in Thailand, Singapore, Guam, Hawaii and the Samoan Islands without much trouble, Turley said.

"We'll still have a significant naval base near southeast Asia, just not in southeast Asia anymore," he said.

The decision to terminate the lease has met mixed reaction from some Senate members, the Filipino people and President Corazon Aquino.

The Philippine economy is fragile, Turley said.

Although Aquino wants the U.S. military out, she wants them to leave gradually and on good terms, he said. Aquino definitely does not want to lose her favorable economic relationship with the United States.

A Department of the Navy fact sheet estimates 40,000 Filipinos work at the facility.

The Philippine community receives about $305 million annually from the U.S. Navy for rent at the base, wages for the workers and equipment.

The U.S. military provides about 5 percent of the Philippines' gross national product, although the rent payment was slightly less this year

Filipinos want the U.S. military out of their country to show their self-sufficiency and independence.

—William Turley

because much of Clark Air Force Base was destroyed by a volcanic eruption earlier this year.

Turley said Filipinos want the U.S. military out of their country to show their self-sufficiency and independence from the United States.

Many politicians ran on nationalist platforms, saying they would get the U.S. Navy off the base.

"Now they've got to put up or shut up," Turley said.

The Foreign Broadcast Information Service reports numerous demonstrations protesting the U.S. military withdrawal.

A proposal to let a national referendum to decide the base's fate was recently ruled unconstitutional by the Filipino Senate.

Turley said if there had been a referendum, those wanting the U.S. military to stay might have won.

The United States have been tied to the Philippines since the end of the Spanish-American War (1898), when the islands were purchased by the United States from Spain for $20 million.

The Philippines began their self-rule under the Commonwealth of the Philippines in 1935.

The islands were captured by the Japanese and MacArthur was forced out in 1942, with the promise that he would return.

The general liberated the Philippines from the Japanese three years later.

The 1947 Military Bases Agreement allows the U.S. military to rent facilities on the Philippines.

'Harvey' depicts human need for imaginary friend

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

To the cast of "Harvey," figments of the imagination are very real.

"Harvey" opened last month at the Stage Company at 101 N. Washington St. in Carbondale.

The three-act comedy has captured the imaginations of audiences since its first performance in 1944. According to a 1986 survey by the American Educational Theatre Association, "Harvey" is performed every night of the year somewhere in the world.

"Harvey" is the best friend of the main character Elwood P. Dowd, played by Tom George. But Harvey is an invisible six-foot rabbit called a Pooka, who talks constantly to Elwood. No one but Elwood can hear or see him.

His sister Veta Louise, played by Neva Isbell, and his niece Myrtle May, played by SIUC student Jenny Miller, are convinced Elwood is insane and send him to a mental hospital.

In the confusion that follows, Dr.

Sanderson, played by Ryan Muskopf, diagnoses Elwood's sister as insane and lets Elwood go.

Tom George, who plays Elwood, said Harvey really does exist.

"Harvey's not imaginary; he's quite real," George said. "I see him quite clearly."

George frequently slips into character onstage, a trait he says comes easily.

George said he has used the imaginary Harvey to lighten up the speech classes he teaches at Carbondale Community High School.

At the beginning of the school year, he set an empty chair near the front of the class. When students tried to sit in it, he told them not to sit on Harvey, George said.

"I think we could all use a Harvey, an imaginary friend who is always going to be there," he said.

The play is directed by Mary Boyle, who has been the director of dramatic activities at Carbondale Community High School since 1973. She said working with adults is very different from directing high school students.

"After 24 years of directing high school productions, it's been a thrill to work with grown-ups," Boyle said.

"Harvey" will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. A matinee is scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Ticket prices are $6 for Friday and Saturday and $4 on Sunday. Tickets can be obtained at the Stage Company box office, which is open 4 to 6 p.m. weekdays, noon to 4 p.m. Saturday and one hour before each performance. For information on reserving a seat, call 549-5466.

Spotlights in theater productions miss behind-the-scenes workers

By Teri Lynn Carlock
General Assignment Writer

Mark Krejci has a part in every production of the SIUC theater department, but he never gets the spotlight.

Krejci, a graduate student in production design from Bloomington, Ind., is one of the carpenters who builds sets for the shows.

He said the carpenters usually have a four-to-five-week building period before opening night.

A lot of special props have to be built from scratch, such as the revolving pillar in the department's most recent production, "Grease," but about one-third of the set is recycled from past shows.

"Our budget does not allow us to purchase new materials for each show," he said. "We have to use certain materials, like stock units, again and again."

Krejci also works on the lighting for the set. Most of his time is spent actually sitting out in the house to get a perspective of what kind of lighting is needed at certain times in the production.

About 100 people take part in the production of each play. Some of these participants are scenic artists, carpenters, electricians, sound engineers and the stage crew.

Ron Naversen, an assistant professor in the theater department from Makanda works on the set design for the musical "Grease."

are two of the costume designers for the production of "Grease."

The costume designers begin their work four to six weeks before opening night. They talk to the director and find his vision of the show and combine that with their own concepts.

Then they do research on the time period of the production to develop a concept of what the clothing should look like.

"We are trained to elicit emotional responses from the audience without them being aware of it," Ebarb said.

The costume designers said the best part of their job is the display of their work on stage.

Ron Naversen, a faculty member in the theater department is the scenic designer. He is in charge of making, buying and borrowing props.

Props that are necessary for certain productions, such as the leather and Pink Ladies jackets for "Grease," can be rented from specialty shops.

The props that are needed but cannot be made or borrowed must be bought by the department. Naversen sent two students to Georgia last summer to buy parts of the 1957 Chevy used in "Grease."

Group acts out fire prevention skit for schools

By Rob Neff
Police Writer

Students from the SIUC theater department sang, danced and performed short skits Tuesday to teach children in local schools to "stop, drop and roll" as part of fire prevention activities this year.

The group toured four elementary schools and Lincoln Jr. High School, where they received unexpected applause.

"We skipped this school the past couple of years because we did not have a good reception," said Assistant Fire Chief Harry Threlkeld. "But these guys did a good job. They were silly enough to keep the kids into it."

The theater group's act included a family fire feud where actors guessed important fire safety rules and a skit where a boy had to learn to stop, drop and roll to get a date with a girl.

"My favorite was the stop drop and roll," said Marsha Shannon, 13, of Carbondale. She said she knew most of the fire prevention tips before attending the program but was entertained by it anyway.

Threlkeld said the message he wanted to stress through the presentation was the need for families to have a home escape plan.

"We've had tragic fires where we found victims dead two feet from the door," he said. "That shows the need for a home escape plan. It doesn't need to be elaborate as long as everyone knows it and follows it."

Popular movie comes apart on video

By Casey Hampton
Entertainment Writer

Some copies of Orion's three-hour Kevin Costner epic, "Dances with Wolves," have been stretched to their limits since the movie came out on video in August.

The award-sweeping movie has had four to five times more breaking and stretching than other video cassettes, said Paul Wagner, vice president of Orion Home Entertainment Corp.

"Ninety-five percent of the initial 655,000 videos played continuously without problems, but nationally, there was a 5-percent breakage," he said.

Notices were sent out to all retailers and distributors on Aug. 30 to be cautious of the high-speed rewind video chains often use.

The optical reader on VCRs alerts the machine to slow down and stop at the end of the tape, but the rewinders go from what Wagner refers to as a "full tilt boogie into a full speed jam." The tape immediately is jerked to a stop at high speed.

"The bulk of the problems passed and peaked by the middle of the following week," he said.

An article in the Sept. 30 issue of Time magazine reported the high defective rate of "Dances" is a result of Orion cramming 180 minutes of footage onto one tape to cut costs, but Wagner denied this.

In comparison, "Goodfellas," 146 minutes, and "Hunt for Red October," 135 minutes, each had an 8 to 10 percent defect rate, he said.

At the other end, "Lonesome Dove" was put on two tapes, each having a running time two minutes shorter than "Dances."

"Lonesome Dove" was duplicated on the same tape using the same shells at the same boutique, Premier Video, and had a defect rate near zero," Wagner said.

Despite the high number of defective tapes, Wagner said Orion is the pioneer of the most convenient replacement program in the industry, called the Free No-Fault Defectives Replacement Program.

"Basically, it costs zip for any replacements. It doesn't matter if the dog ate it or the baby peed on it, we take them all," he said.

Hiring freeze prevents performance of opera

By Jefferson Robbins
Entertainment Editor

Composer Giacomo Puccini may well be rolling in his grave, but "La Bohème," his 1896 opera about two pairs of star-crossed lovers, will not be performed at SIUC anytime soon.

A University-wide hiring freeze in fall 1991 made the hiring of a new opera director impossible, postponing the production at least until next academic year, said Robert Roubos, School of Music director.

The production, involving School of Music voice students in primary roles and music by the SIUC Symphony, was originally set to run in March 1992.

A nationwide search for a director to replace former director Jeanine Wagner came to a halt when the school learned it would have no funds to pay a new faculty member.

A new director, Frieda Holland, had been selected when news of the freeze came down, Roubos said. Because of the lack of funds, she will be unable to join the school's faculty until next year.

But other projects under the aegis of the Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater Program, such as the Opera Gala, are unaffected by the freeze, Roubos said.

"The program is alive and well with the exception of the mainstage production," Roubos said.

Former director Wagner, now an assistant professor, said the decision to cancel was regrettable but beyond anyone's control.

"We are kind of victims of the state for this year," said Wagner, who directed the opera program for the previous seven years. "A lot of belt-tightening is going on all over the University."

The School of Music has had an operating agreement with the Theater Department to produce an opera each year for the last decade, with theater students doing a majority of staging and design, and music specialists focusing on the orchestration, Roubos said.

The relationship between the two schools is unusual, Roubos said, given that "artistic people tend to bump heads."

The cancellation of "La Bohème" is only a temporary setback in the relationship, he said.

"We've agreed to do another major production jointly," he said.

Conference to examine black history

By Omonpee O. Whitfield
General Assignment Writer

A local group of African-American residents will take a trip back in time to explore their roots this weekend.

The Little Egypt Chapter of the Afro-American Historical and Genealogical Society will sponsor its third annual conference Saturday at the Lesar Law Building.

Chapter President Rosetta O'Neil said with its chartering in 1989, the Little Egypt chapter became the only chapter of the national organization south of Chicago.

O'Neil said the purpose of this conference is two-fold. First of all, she said, the conference will help educate African Americans about the plight of African Americans in the past. Secondly, she said, the conference will serve as a membership drive for the Little Egypt chapter.

"We hope to encourage people to appreciate African-American heritage, whether it is genealogical or historical," O'Neil said. "I feel that our history is important to the building and development of this country."

"We'd also like for people to become aware that the organization is here in this area, and we would like to get more people involved in helping us promote the history of African-Americans."

drinking, however, are encouraging, said a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse.

"A ytime that kind of message gets across to the public that alcohol is dangerous, it's good. We are all for any advertising that promotes drinking responsibly. But we also discourage advertising that makes drinking appear glamorous," said Mike Shepherd, a public information officer with DASA.

Steve Phelps, an assistant professor in the SIUC advertising department agrees the effort is worthwhile.

"It's better (to have the posters) than to not do anything at all," he said.

But the images in alcohol advertising can be very destructive, said the a spokesman for the SIUC Wellness Center.

"The advertisements give reasons for why people drink like 'Create Your Own Island.' These can be dangerous because most alcoholics are generally very disconnected from their feelings," said Joe Baker, co-coordinator for the alcohol program at the Wellness Center.

Baker said sex themes and high adventure action in a liquor advertisement are odd because the two things are not congruent.

"We don't understand (how we view these commercials) how these things form a basis for our own behavior," Baker said.

The University also is joining in the effort to heighten people's interest in drinking responsibly by sponsoring Alcohol Awareness Week Oct. 14 to 18.

The Wellness Center and Student Programming Council have invited Jean Kilbourne to speak at 8 p.m. Oct. 17 in the Student Center Ballrooms C and D.

Kilbourne is an authority on addictions, the media and sex roles. The program entitled "Under the Influence: The Pushing of Alcohol via Advertising" is the keynote activity of the week.

Some of Kilbourne's accomplishments include: appearing on "The Today Show" and "The Oprah Winfrey Show", serving as a consultant to ABC, CBS and CNN news as well as "20/20" and "Nightline," serving as an adviser to Surgeon General Antonia Novella and a member of C. Everett Koop's workshop on drunk driving.

"The reason we selected Jean Kilbourne is she is a nationally recognized authority on the subject of advertising, the media and sex roles," Baker said.

"She believes that the liquor industry can have a very negative effect on the public. They can glamorize what may potentially be a heartbreaking situation," he said.

Groups to clean spots to help rid city of trash

By Annette Holder
City Writer

Members of the SIUC Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity have claimed a spot in Carbondale as their own to keep free of trash as part of a volunteer program to keep Carbondale litter-free.

Pi Kappa Alpha is taking part in a new program by Carbondale Clean and Green called Adopt-A-Spot. Fraternity members have volunteered to pick up trash along South University Avenue.

Carbondale Clean and Green developed the Adopt-A-Spot program three months ago to help make Carbondale a prettier city, said James Prowell, executive director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce.

Rich Kalina, pre-medicine junior from Murphysboro and Pi Kappa Alpha community service chairman, said the fraternity became involved because its members like to get involved in projects that benefit Carbondale.

"We like to get into things where we can see results," Kalina said. "We want our members to learn to take pride in wherever they live."

Thirteen volunteer organizations have signed up for the program, and six more organizations are needed by Christmas, said Adopt-A-Spot director Joanna DeJarnett. The organizations include Pi Kappa Alpha and local Brownie and Girl Scout groups.

"As long as there's trash in an area, we're going to keep needing more groups," she said.

Areas to be cleaned by the groups include the Carbondale Community High School and University Avenue from Main to Mill streets.

The program is designed to be a continuous cleaning effort by the organizations. Members of the volunteer organizations clean litter from their chosen area once a month.

Trash bags and disposal of the trash are provided at no charge.

The program begins at 1 p.m. Saturday. Volunteers should meet at the Pi Kappa Alpha house, 516 S. University Ave.

State rabies cases decrease; disease nears end of cycle

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

The number of reported rabies cases in Illinois has decreased to 10 so far this year from 304 reported in 1982, as the disease nears the end of its cycle.

"The rates of rabies come in a cycle, and now we are at the bottom of the decreasing cycle of rabies cases," said Lloyd Nelson, an officer for the Jackson County Animal Control.

Rabies is transmitted to animals and people through contact with a rabid animal's saliva, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health.

"The main carrier of rabies in Southern Illinois is the striped skunk," Nelson said. "Bats and foxes are also common carriers in Southern Illinois."

The number of skunks that are infected with rabies indicates the potential for rabies in human and animal cases, according to the health department.

Signs of the disease in animals include difficulty walking, an appearance of sickness or a general change in an animal's normal actions.

If an animal appears to be rabid, no attempt should be made to help the animal, Nelson said. If a normally friendly or tame animal becomes hostile without provocation, it too should be considered rabid.

No effort should be made to approach or befriend a wild or stray animal, Nelson said. If an animal appears to need help, people should contact the local animal control officer.

Nelson said anyone who is scratched, bitten or in contact with saliva of a rabid animal should wash the wound thoroughly with water and soap.

The rabid animal should immediately be contained because the animal's brain tissue is needed for doctors to tell if the animal is infected with the disease.

A physician as well as the local animal control should be contacted promptly to report contact with a potentially rabid animal.

"Unfortunately, there is no cure for rabies once it develops," Nelson said. "There is a vaccine available, and (it) is 100 percent effective if given before the disease spreads."

Men protest violence against women during 'safety week'

By James T. Rendulich
General assignment writer

The coordinator of the BrotherPeace rally at SIUC said stopping men's violence against women is just a start to stopping violence.

"We need to stop men's violence against women, children, other men and the planet," said Bryan Crow, coordinator for the BrotherPeace rally.

Crow and 10 other men gathered Monday night at the Wesley Foundation in Carbondale for the annual rally, which started Women's Safety Week at SIUC.

Jeff Harris, a counselor at the University's counseling center, said the first step to alleviating the problem is looking at society.

"From the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles to G.I. Joe action figures, I think we all have to look at how men are brought up. The media teach men to look at women as objects and to get what they want through violence," Harris said.

Harris said men need to realize what is going on around them before significant progress can be made.

"The final step to ending violent crimes on women is for men to realize the actions of other men around them and continue to change their own behavior for themselves and the women around them."

Jim Lundy, a 32-year-old doctoral candidate in speech communications, said the key to stopping male violence is getting to the root before it starts.

"Some people in the rally impressed the importance of stopping acts like abusive language when they hear it," Lundy said.

"If we are ever to make real progress, we have to educate and never let things like abusive language get started," he said.

Police Blotter

Teri Renee Foster, 23, and Julie L. Foster, 19, of Carbondale, were arrested at 2:40 p.m. Oct. 5 in Lot 10 after they allegedly gave police false identification and resisted arrest.

Teri Foster was arrested in connection with charges of resisting a peace officer, obstructing justice and aggravated battery.

Julie Foster was arrested in connection with charges of obstructing justice, unlawful use of a license and underage possession of alcohol.

Charles J. Wheeler, 27, of 105 Greek Row, was arrested in connection with driving under the influence at 2:03 a.m. Oct. 5 on the 800 block of East Grand Avenue.

Vincent S. Boyd, 22, of 402 E. Snider St. Apt. 5, was arrested at 11:25 p.m. Oct. 4 on a warrant issued by Jackson County for failure to appear to face the charge of forgery.

One out of 15 male college students reports committing rape or attempting it. Most of the time, the victim is another student. And the rapist someone you would least suspect.

The fact is, whenever a man forces a woman to have sex, it is rape. No matter who he is, it is a criminal offense. And it should be reported. Because a collection of varsity letters or club offices won't hold off a jail sentence.

After all, rape isn't a privilege. It's a felony. Even for the biggest man on campus.

Against her will is against the law.

SMILE ADVERTISING RATES

$3.10 per inch

Space Reservation Deadline: 2p.m., 2 days prior to publication.
Requirements: Smile ad rates are designed to be used by individuals or organizations for personal advertising—birthdays, anniversaries, congratulations, etc. and not for commercial use or to announce events.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

Please Be Sure To Check Your Classified Advertisement For Errors On The First Day Of Publication

The Daily Egyptian cannot be responsible for more than one day's incorrect insertion. Advertisers are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser which lessen the value of the advertisement will be adjusted.

All classified advertising must be processed before 12:00 Noon to appear in the next day's publication. Anything processed after 12:00 Noon will go in the following day's publication. Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for those accounts with established credit. A 29¢ charge will be added to billed classified advertising. A service charge of $7.50 will be added to the advertiser's account for every check returned to the Daily Egyptian unpaid by the advertiser's bank. Early cancellation of a classified advertisement will be charged a $2.00 service fee. Any refund under $2.00 will be forfeited due to the cost of processing.

All advertising submitted to the Daily Egyptian is subject to approval and may be revised, rejected, or cancelled at any time.

The Daily Egyptian assumes no liability if for any reason it becomes necessary to omit an advertisement. A sample of all mail-order items must be submitted and approved prior to deadline for publication.

No ads will be mis-classified.

to her second all-tournament team. She also made the Southern Classic's all-tourney team.

Locke said Firnhaber performs well on the court because she is an intelligent player.

"She thinks her way through the game and tries her best to place the ball," Locke said. "She has good hands and a good head."

Firnhaber's teammates also said her ball placement contributes to the team's success.

Junior middle blocker Dana Oiden, who twice was selected as the Gateway Conference Player of the Week, said she attributes her receiving the honor to Firnhaber.

"Our team had great passes in getting it to the setter," Oiden said, "and once she gets it, it is easier for us to get the kill."

A member of the 1990 Academic All-American First Team, Firnhaber maintains a 3.9 grade point average.

"It is hard missing classes while we are traveling," said Firnhaber, a business and administration/exercise science and fitness double major. "But you have got to give up something somewhere, and your social life usually goes."

Firnhaber said after she graduates in 1993 she plans to continue playing volleyball.

"I to get a graduate assistantship to the volleyball coach while attending grad school," Firnhaber said. "Or I might try my luck with the work force in the field of the health club industry."

The team is ready and anxious to begin conference play, Firnhaber said.

"With the conference matches coming up, wins will be important," Firnhaber said. "We also travel so much it will be great to come home to the fans. I just hope more people show because once they come, they are hooked. Volleyball is addictive."

pulling within two seconds of cracking SIUC's all time Top 20 cross country times, he said.

Kershaw said her success as an individual comes from the influences of the team's more experienced runners.

"We're a closely knit team," she said. "I've tried to match the pace of (junior) Dawn Barefoot and (senior) Arnie Padgett. We all push each other to improve, and when we improve individually the whole team improves."

The Gardners came to SIUC on the merit of their high school performances, DeNoon said.

"Karen was a talented high school runner," he said. "She finished sixth in the two-mile run at the state tournament and 16th in cross country. Karri qualified for the state cross country race three of four years in high school."

Karen, who holds the 19th position in the SIU Top 20, said running with her sister throughout their careers has helped them both improve.

"We have a really friendly competition," Karen said. "We worry about each other in the races, but not so much that I don't look over my shoulder to make sure she's not gaining on me."

Despite their individual competitiveness the Saluki runners set their goals on contributing to the team's bid for the conference title.

"I think we're in good shape for the conference meet," Padgett said. "If we continue to improve the way we have there's no telling how far we could go."

Agassi, Chang open with wins in Seiko event

TOKYO (UPI) — Andre Agassi led a parade of five American men into the third round of the $1 million Seiko Super Tennis event Tuesday with a 7-5, 6-1 victory over Mexico's Luis Herrera.

Agassi, the fourth seed, struggled early in the match with Herrera's speed and deft drop shots as both players held serve for the first 11 games on the fast indoor surface.

But with Herrera serving at 40-0 in the 12th game to force a tie-breaker, Agassi reached back and fired off five straight points to break the Mexican for the set.

"I don't think I was hitting the ball as clean as I was later on," said Agassi, who led the United States to victory over Germany in the Davis Cup semifinals last month. "I was pretty lucky to win the first set."

Agassi had little trouble against Herrera in the second set, saying later, "I got my groove going."

"We didn't raise prices for the students or on the Saluki Pass because we don't want to take away from the students," Hart said.

"We will try to keep the same price for the students as always."

Sections A through U are $106 for the season and $8 a game. Season ticket cost for upper level bleachers are $76 for the public, $56 for SIUC faculty and staff and $56 for high school students and younger.

Seats cost $6 a game for the public and $4 for high school students and younger.

said the team performed so well because the players functioned as a unit rather than as individuals. They communicated on the field defensively and offensively.

As the fall season progressed, the Salukis again began to function more as a unit, Brechtelsbauer said. The timing and communication got better every game.

She said she expects a lot at every position for the spring of 1992.

Pitchers

The Salukis have the potential for the best pitching team in the Gateway Conference, pitching coach Gary Buckles said.

"The difference in pitchers is whether or not they can handle pressure situations," Buckles said. "The fall season didn't offer as big a challenge as it has in the past, but it gave the pitchers a chance to see what they needed to work on."

Pitchers for the Salukis include junior Angie Mick, senior Dede Darnell and freshman Shelly Lane. Mick, who was named all-conference last season, finished the fall exhibition season with a 3-0 record, including a perfect game in the season opener against Washash.

Buckles said Mick has all the pitches, but she still needs to work on her change-up. She is throwing it too high and not disguising it with her normal motion.

Darnell finished the fall season with a 4-2 record, including a no-hitter also against Washash. She needs to work on throwing faster pitches, Buckles said. Darnell gets most of her outs with a good straight change up and good off-speed curve.

Lane finished the fall season with a 4-0 record, including a no-hitter against Bradley in the Bradley Invitational.

If Lane keeps progressing as she has, she will become a dominant pitcher in the Gateway by her sophomore year, Buckles said.

"Society has a really good drop ball," Buckles said. "She needs to develop a consistent rise ball and consistent change up. She's a good listener and open to new ideas."

Catchers

The Salukis have a strong catching duo for the spring season, Brechtelsbauer said.

Sophomore Laurie Wilson, who was named Gateway Rookie of the Year last season and finished the fall season with a .444 batting average, and freshman Tamara Sundstrom work behind the plate.

Brechtelsbauer said SIUC recruited a second catcher because they needed to keep Wilson strong. "Tamara will take over some of the catching duties to give Laurie a relief," she said. "Tamara has shown improvement every day. She has a good throwing arm, moves well and has blocked the ball well."

Infielders

On first base, freshman Mario Pecoraro has stepped in to replace graduate Angie LeMonnier.

Pecoraro's confidence has built throughout the fall season, Brechtelsbauer said.

"Her height gives the infielders confidence in throwing to her because even if they throw it high she'll still catch the ball," she said. "She has fielded the bunt well, has hit well and has the potential to become one of SIUC's most outstanding first basemen."

Both returning infielders, senior second sacker Andrea Rudanovich and senior shortstop Cheryl Venorsky, who was named all-conference in the Midwest and Academic Player of the Year last season, did a great job during the fall season, Brechtelsbauer said.

Venorsky finished the fall season with a .457 batting average and a team-high 17 RBIs.

A new infielder is sophomore third sacker Maura Hasenstab, who replaces Mary Jo Fimbach.

Brechtelsbauer said Hasenstab is playing with more confidence every time out. She batted .360.

"She's quick and fields the bunt well," she said. "I never had any doubts in her defense ability. Her hitting has been a plus to the team during the fall. She can hit the ball well and has been one of the team's most consistent bunters."

Outfielders

Replacing graduate Shannon Taylor in left field is junior Karrie Irvin, a transfer from Illinois Central College where she was named Junior College All-American.

Irvin played center field at ICC, and after playing the fall season, Irvin has started to relax in her new position, Brechtelsbauer said. She can hit the ball extremely hard and has good speed, she said. Irvin hit .355 in the fall.

Returning to the outfield are senior center fielder Kim Johannsen and junior right fielder Colleen Holloway, who was named third team All-American and Academic All-American in 1991.

Johannsen was moved to the No. 2 position in the lineup. She is a good bunter, which is what she has to be able to do in that slot, Brechtelsbauer said. Johannsen had a .342 batting average and the second highest RBI total with 13.

Holloway led the Salukis offensively with a .487 batting average.

Drabek, Glavine face off in opener

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — It's the moment every pitcher dreams about from the time he first grips a ball on the sandlot. Yet, when the moment arrives not everyone can handle it smoothly.

Pittsburgh's Doug Drabek, the 1990 Cy Young Award winner, didn't handle his first assignment very well last year and is getting another chance. Tom Glavine, the probable 1991 Cy Young Award winner, only hopes he has the mental concentration to make the most of his first opportunity.

The big moment for both comes Wednesday night when the two oppose each other in the first game of the National League playoffs. Winning the first game of the playoffs, though not always essential to a team, is considered a big morale booster and quite often serves as the catalyst that sends a team to the World Series.

This is the second straight year that Drabek will be appearing in the playoffs and he wants to be better focused than he was a year ago.

That's often easier said than done as Glavine may find out. "I can go in confident,"

Glavine said. "I have a lot of confidence in my ability. That doesn't mean I won't be nervous. I pitched in the All-Star Game and I thought I would be nervous. That doesn't mean I don't have confidence in myself. The main thing for me is to go out and establish my pitches and throw strikes."

Bosox fire Morgan in surprise move

BOSTON (UPI) — Joe Morgan, whose Boston Red Sox collapsed in a September pennant drive, Tuesday was fired as manager of the club in a surprise move and replaced by Butch Hobson.

The Red Sox announced the dismissal at a news conference, two days after the club completed the season tied for second place, seven games behind Toronto in the American League East. The Red Sox lost 11 of their last 14 games after pulling within a half game of the Blue Jays.

Morgan, part of the Red Sox organization since 1974, had shown no indication the Red Sox were unhappy with his leadership. Last week he was asked last week how long he wanted to keep managing. "Another hundred years," he replied.

Hobson, a former Red Sox third baseman, managed Boston's Pawtucket farm team this season.

In Gateway statistics, Simpson currently ranks No. 1 in digs with a 3.77 average, No. 3 in kills with a 3.64 average, and No. 5 in hitting percentage with .262.

She also was named to five of six all-tournament teams this fall.

Locke said Simpson has been named player of the week twice because of her consistent play.

"She is a model athlete in every aspect of the sport," Locke said. "On the court she is consistent match after match. We can always depend on her when the team needs a lift."
